Of the Gunness Case Has Been Started

GRAND JURY IN SESSION

Lamphere Apparently Has Plenty of Money For His Defense

The Large Sunday Crowd Again Overruns the Farm of Tragedies.

Laporte, Ind., May 18.—The Laporte county grand jury today took up the case of Ray Lamphere, accused of murdering Mrs. Belle Gunness and three children and firing the Gunness home. Forty witnesses were on hand. Coroner Mack today received a letter from Mrs. Henry Witzler, of Toledo, O., declaring her fear that her daughter was a Gunness victim. The girl was a graduate of Valparaiso college, the letter said, and returned home November 28, 1902. Shortly after that she disappeared. Tomorrow digging will be resumed in the "Gunness private graveyard."

Laporte, Ind., May 18.—The Laporte county grand jury has begun its investigation of the tragedies of the Gunness farm. Prosecutor R. N. Smith will present the first of 50 witnesses to testify against Ray Lamphere, accused of burning Mrs. Belle Gunness and her children alive in their house on April 28, and suspected of having aided Mrs. Gunness in the murder of Andrew K. Helgelein on January 14. Indictments charging arson and murder in the first degree are looked upon as a foregone conclusion. There is a strong possibility that an indictment will be voted charging Lamphere with being an accessory to the murder of Helgelein. In any case the action of the grand jury will precipitate a legal fight in which politics, and perhaps some elements which at present are not generally known, will have an active part.

The grand jury is composed as follows: N. D. McCormick, ex-senior, foreman; August Z. Anders, farmer; Henry Keithlin, farmer; Fred H. Zahn, ex-county treasurer; Joseph Frasier, retired groceryman; August Barsken, farmer.

Among the more important witnesses is Joseph Maxson, Mrs. Gunness's hired man, who escaped with his life from the fire; Mrs. Nina Shoemaker and Bessie Wallace, who are expected to testify that Lamphere told them that he knew enough to send Mrs. Gunness to the gallows, and displayed enmity toward the woman on the eve of the fire, and Mrs. Elizabeth Smith, at whose house Lamphere slept on the night the house was burned. Sheriff Albert E. Smutzer and Deputy William Ansliss, and C. J. Smith of the Pinkerton National Detective Agency, and bank officials will testify in reference to Mrs. Gunness's deposits made the day before the house was burned and her expressed fears of Lamphere. A boy, John Holyon, who has told two stories on the same day and contradicted himself, will be brought before the grand jury in an effort to get at the truth. The boy's first story was that he saw Lamphere run out of the Gunness yard just after the fire started. Later he said that he was not about early that morning at all.

Lamphere's admission, made on the day of his arrest at the Wheatbrook farm after the fire, will be related by the sheriff and his deputies. The various depositions bearing on the case made before Coroner C. S. Mack will be introduced as evidence.

The presentation of the testimony probably will occupy three or four days. The speculation as to where the money is coming from to defend Lamphere has been increased by the discovery that Detective C. C. Fish of the Clark Detective Agency of Chicago, apparently is working in Lamphere's behalf. Lamphere's attorneys deny that they have employed Fish. Yet Sheriff Smutzer says that Fish is claiming to have secured a lot of the ammunition of the prosecution. It is one of the curious phases of the case.

A feature of interest was the arrival of J. G. Renden of Mansfield, N. D., a brother of John O. Moe, of Ellow Lake, Minn., who is supposed to

FARMHAND CONFESSES TO TRIPLE MURDER

MRS. SHEPPARD WAS SHOT JUST INSIDE THIS WINDOW.

MRS. WILLIAM B. SHEPPARD

New York, May 18.—Frank Zastera, the boyish farmhand who raised the alarm about the triple murder at Wickatunk, N. J., Saturday morning, is reported to have confessed that it was he who shot and killed William D. Sheppard, Mrs. Josephine Sheppard and their young servant, Jennie Bandy.

After 18 hours of "sweating" the police forced him to don the blood-stained, shot-torn vest taken from Sheppard's body. They made him place his hand upon that part of it above his heart. "Now swear that you are innocent," they commanded. The boy broke down and sobbed: "I did it. I did it. Now let me alone and I'll tell it all."

Encountering Mrs. Sheppard coming down stairs early in the morning scantily clad, he addressed her in a manner she resented. She screamed to her husband for help. A gun was standing handily in a corner.

"Grabbing the weapon, he chased the frightened woman until he was close enough to strike her with the barrel. Then he fired three shots into her body. Her husband was half way down the stairs, when Zastera fired two shots at him, killing him instantly. The pretty servant had resented Zastera's advances the night before. He knew she would tell on him, so he turned the weapon on her felling her as she was running through a door to get away.

"I don't know why I did it," Zastera told the officials who put him through his inquisition. "I just felt it all of a sudden. My mind is weak."

The man is far from the typical farm laborer. He is an artist, a violinist, a worker in pyrography. He earned a good living by designing and decorating purses.

assisted by Archbishop Ryan, of Philadelphia and practically all bishops and prelates of this and neighboring jurisdictions. It is expected that at least 500 members of the Catholic clergy will be present.

Couple Had Separated and Woman Had Taken Children to Probate Court.

Cleveland, O., May 18.—Mrs. Freda Bower was shot dead today by her husband, John Bower, 45, at the home of John Hapner, where she had taken refuge. Mrs. Bower had trouble with her husband and early today took her children to probate court. She then went to the Hapner home. Bower followed her and shot at her three times as she was talking to Mrs. Hapner. The last bullet pierced her heart. Bower then fled. The police were soon on the trail. They caught the murderer and as a policeman grabbed him. Bower shot himself back of the ear and fell to the ground. He was rushed to the hospital.

ABSOLUTE DIVORCE

SOUGHT BY WOMAN WHO CLAIMS SENATOR PLATT AS HER HUSBAND.

Arguments in Case Being Heard Today and Justice O'Gorman Will Take Under Advisement.

New York, May 18.—Justice O'Gorman today heard arguments in the application for absolute divorce brought by Mae C. Wood of Omaha, who styles herself Mae C. Wood Platt, against United States Senator Platt of New York.

Mrs. Wood Platt names as co-respondent Mrs. Lillian Janeway Platt, to whom the Senator was married in October 1901. She alleges in her complaint that she married Senator Platt November 9, 1901, at the Fifth Avenue Hotel and introduced in substantiation of this contention a certificate which she claims was signed by the officiating clergyman and witnesses. Attorneys for Senator Platt say the certificate is fraudulent. It is expected that arguments will be concluded by this evening when Justice O'Gorman will take the papers under advisement.

CANAL

Progressing in Fine Shape According to Sec. Taft

WORK IS BEING RUSHED

Big Secretary Grows En- thusiastic When Des- cribing Trip

Excellent Progress Being Made on the Great Panama Ditch by the Government.

Charleston, S. C., May 18.—Secretary of War William H. Taft, who arrived here from Panama on board the cruiser Prairie sailed from this port for Panama on May 1 and completed his work and returned two days ahead of his schedule. He was in fine health and spirits. He said that his trip had been delightful and while he was kept very busy he had enjoyed every moment of the time.

Mr. Taft grew enthusiastic when telling of the excellent progress being made on the Panama canal and comparing the situation to that which greeted him on the occasion of his first visit to Panama in 1904.

"The isthmus now presents," he said, "an appearance not unlike a factory or mill village, or succession of villages, clear across and the lights at night and the noise, too, might keep one awake if not tired enough to sleep well."

Regarding certain details of the work, Mr. Taft said that foundations for the great Gatun dam had begun and were progressing. This immense water barrier will, when completed, produce a lake several miles wide and 20 odd miles long. The land overflowed is largely the property of the governments interested, but some portions are private property and to determine the value of this land a commission was appointed under section six of the treaty consisting of two Panamanians and two Americans.

An umpire was to be appointed if necessary and this contingency having arisen, Governor Magoon of the island of Cuba has been asked to serve and has consented.

When asked as to the possibilities of concluding this work, Mr. Taft said: "If it was only the matter of digging the ditch, I should suppose three years were enough time at the present excellent rate of progress; the way in which the steam shovels are cutting into the land is almost wonderful, but there are other things that we cannot estimate at this time."

BARRELS

Used to Smuggle Chinamen From El Paso to New York and Two Are Found Dead.

El Paso, Tex., May 18.—Chinatown here is in a state of excitement over a telegram from New York stating that 15 barrels shipped from this place as merchandise were received at the establishment of Quong Duoy Yin on Pell street, New York, each containing the body of a Chinaman.

This is the result of a new trick to get smuggled Chinese out of El Paso to a place of safety. For many years smuggling Chinese has been a lucrative business here. In addition to the 15 barrels shipped to New York, 10 were billed to Chicago.

Rumors are in circulation that the contents of the barrels were discovered by a railroad employee, that two of the Chinamen were found dead, but that the remaining 13 were liberated.

ARREST WILL FOLLOW FAILURES

Owensboro, Ky., May 18.—It is freely predicted here that arrests will be made as a result of the failures of the Owensboro Savings Bank and Trust company and the Davies County bank. ## TRAFFIC

On Cleveland Street Car Line is Being Resumed

VIOLENCE HAS CEASED

Chief Police Kohler Has 1,000 Men Under Con- stant Orders

State Board of Arbitration Trying to Settle the Strike—Offi- cials Ultimatum.

Cleveland, May 18.—The third day of the street car strike witnessed the gradual resumption of traffic on all lines within the city limits.

Violence practically ceased at noon today although a few cars were attacked early today and in one case a conductor was badly beaten.

Including deputies, Chief of Police Kohler has nearly 1,000 men under orders and is keeping the situation under control.

Members of the state board of arbitration are making efforts to secure a renewal of arbitration with a view of ending the strike. Mayor Johnson and President Dupont of the Municipal Traction company have stated to members of the state board that no arbitration will be considered until violence has wholly ceased and that the new men hired in place of the strikers must be regarded as old employees in any arbitration. To this ultimatum the strikers have so far made no answer.

Interurban cars are running without interference but traffic in the city suburbs is in bad shape.

AIRSHIP

Of the St. Louis Amateur Aeronaut Carried Him in Gale at Rate of 50 Miles an Hour.

St. Louis, Mo., May 18.—Buffeted about four miles above the earth in a gale that bore him northward 50 miles an hour, with no motor or steering gear and with a large hole ripped in the envelope, John Berry, a St. Louis amateur aeronaut, made an ascension from his workshop at 1215 North Vandeventer avenue, and after a devious route landed at Orchard Farm, Ill.

The distance, as the crow flies, 45 miles, was covered in 90 minutes. At the last minute Berry abandoned the framework and the steering apparatus and substituted a light swing and shoved off the roof.

It was noticed then that a rent two feet long had been torn in the gas bag. It was too late to stop and Berry, in his old craft, was borne upward and to the east in the teeth of the gale.

As Officer Hamby passed near the headquarters he saw three men acting suspiciously. They ran as he approached, and an examination showed that the dynamite had been placed ready for explosion, and the men were about to touch it off when the officer approached.

The Salvation Army conducts a hotel in connection with its headquarters and more than 200 persons were in the building when the officer prevented the explosion.

Detectives yesterday arrested Geo. W. Vebald, R. S. Hill, Robert Ford, George S. Pierson, Max Singer, Wm. Jarrett and George Adams as suspects.

When Grasshopper Went A-Woong.

There was a young Grasshopper, gay,
Who thought he would take him a ride.
So forthwith he went out one day
To look round the whole country side.

He hopped through the tall, rustling grass
That grew at the little pond's side;
He smiled at every young lass
Whom he thought might be a fair bride.

But none proved quite to his taste,
So he hurried along toward the wood;
For a bride should not be sought in haste.
Thus Grasshopper gay understood,
But in passing a high tuft of grass
Young Hop saw a pair of bright eyes;
They belonged to a dear little lass
Who was hearing the softest of sighs.

The bright-eyed was Miss Katy Did;
And as young Hop's heart beat
As he smiled and lifted his lid,
And bowed low at Miss Katy's feet.

"Be my bride, dearest one," he said,
"For you've captured my heart this day."
And for answer Kate nodded her head,
And together they hopped right away.

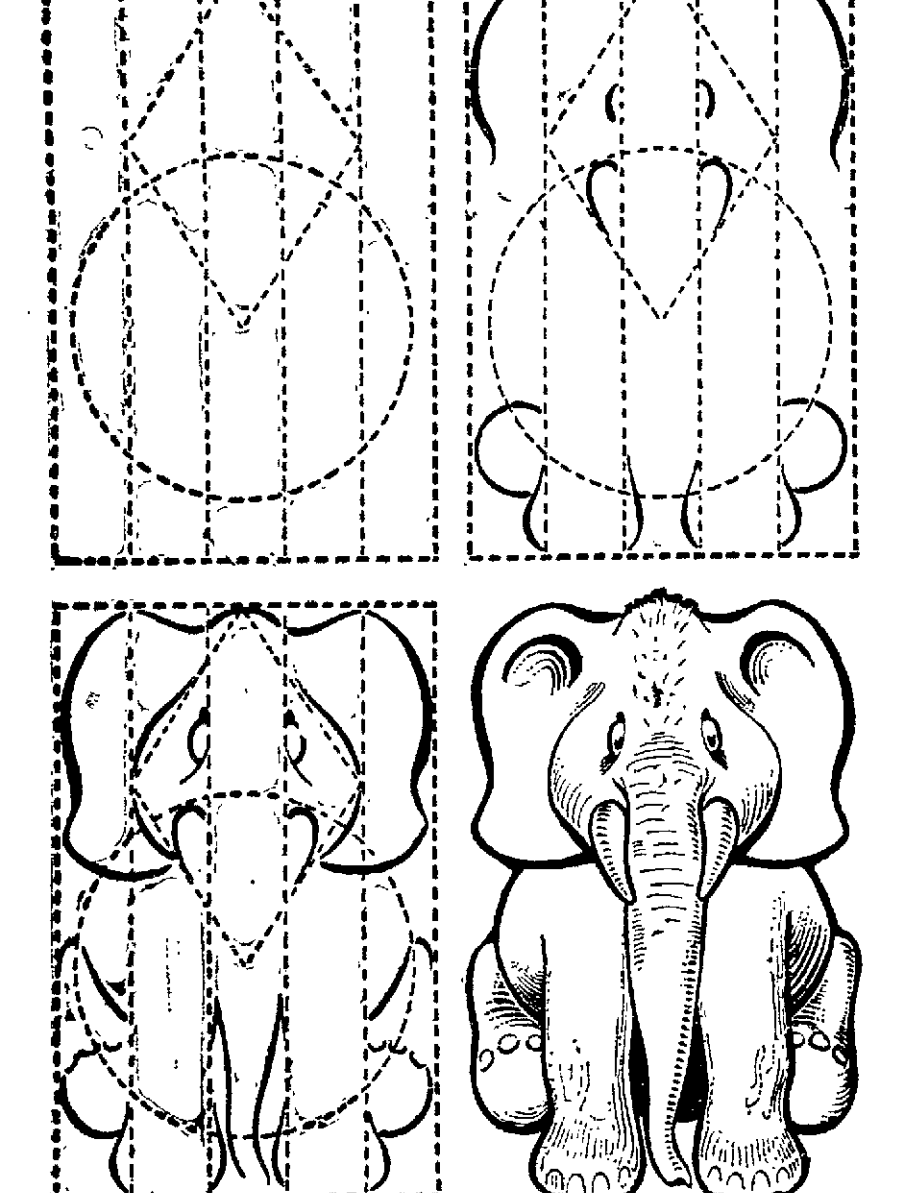

They were married in church that same
With the family and friends all about;
And handsome they looked, so folks say,
As gay bride and groom they stepped out.

OUR PUZZLE CORNER.

HIDDEN PROVERB.
A well-known proverb is hidden in the following six sentences, there being one word of the proverb contained in each sentence, the words appearing in their rightful order.
A fool saith in his heart there is no God.
Let the guilty beware of the wrath to come.
In all matters it is not wise to be led by the conscience.
The needs of the soul are far greater than are those of the body.
No man can evade the hand of God.
The accused is sometimes innocent.
The guilty is sometimes guilty.

LETTER ENIGMA.
My first is in bed, but not in sleep;
My second is in hillsides, but not in steep;
My third is in ocean, but not in sea;
My fourth is in sadness, but not in grief;
My fifth is the same as my fourth, you see.
My sixth is the same as you'll find in my feet.
My seventh is in merchant, but not in street.
My eighth is in scrub-brush, but not in grove.
My whole is the name
Of wild things most dear
To wee nature-lovers
At this time of year.

BEHEADINGS.
1. Behead that which a lover will do when suing for the hand of his adored one and leave the name of a common mineral.
2. Behead the color of a dark day and leave that which comes direct from the sun.
3. Behead the water from a fountain and leave that which little children are taught to do each night before going to bed.
4. Behead that which heralds a storm and leave the sound of a quarrelsome woman's voice.

BIBLICAL CONUNDRUMS.
Who was the straightest man spoken of in the Bible?
Moses, because Pharaoh made a ruler of him.
Why was the first day of Adam's life the longest? Because it had no eve (Eve).
What was the shortest man mentioned in the Bible? Nephew (Nephew-high-mish).

RIDDLES WITH ANSWERS.
1. My first I hope you are;
My second I see you stare;
My whole I know you are.

BERT AND STELLA PAY THE PENALTY.

BY WILLIAM WALLACE, JR.

The mother of Bert and Stella Jackson was obliged to go to town on a shopping expedition, leaving her little son and daughter in the care of the old colored cook, the only house servant kept by the Jacksons. As the town was several miles distant, it necessitated Mrs. Jackson's remaining home all day when making a journey there. She usually took leave of her little ones as soon as breakfast was over, and did not return till after dusk. But always before this day of which I am telling you Mrs. Jackson's maiden aunt had been of the family and had looked after the children during their mother's absence. But the maiden aunt had gone to visit relatives in a far-away city, and there was no one left at home to keep an eye on Bert and Stella save the old colored cook, Aunt Nancy by name.

"Now, Aunt Nancy, keep good care of my little ones," commanded Mrs. Jackson as she was about to depart. "I'll be back in the evening, and see that they do not leave the yard while out at play." Then turning to Bert and Stella, she said to them: "Children, obey Aunt Nancy and remember mamma's instructions about your staying in the yard. Do not leave the premises while I am away. It is such a glorious day that you may spend most of the time about the yard or down by the old straw stacks at play. But remain within call of Aunt Nancy."

Then Mrs. Jackson kissed her son and daughter and departed toward the town, in miles distant.

For an hour or more Bert and Stella played about the front yard, so enjoying the games that two may participate in. But as the morning dragged toward noon Bert became restless. He missed the usual excitement that prevailed about the place when his parents were at home. But with their mother in town shopping, their father in another station on business, and the maiden aunt visiting relatives in a distant city, he found the country a most desolate place, indeed.

"Didn't mamma say that we might meet her at the railroad station?" asked Bert, tossing a rubber ball listlessly.

"We didn't think to ask her about it," replied Stella. "Now, isn't that too bad? I fully intended to tell her that we wished very much to come to the station to meet her. Of course, she'll come home from the station in the same public hack that she went down there in. But there's room for us, too, for seldom are there any other passengers coming out so far as our house."

"Oh, mamma wouldn't have refused to allow us to meet her tonight," declared Bert. "She'll be so glad to see us standing on the platform when she alights from the train. And what a jolly ride we'll all have together coming from the station in that funny, rumbling old hack. I'm and our carriage is at the shop for repairs, for I like the public hack lots better. That old driver is so funny and always entertains his passengers with some quaint yarns as his old horses jog along at about one mile an hour." And Bert laughed at recollection of the old lack driver, whose polite conversation was a most unique sight in that vicinity of carriages and automobiles.

"Well, and so you really think that mamma wouldn't object to our going to the station to meet her?" asked Stella, herself becoming a bit lonely and somewhat tired of the monotony of the yard.

"Of course, she wouldn't," asserted Bert, emphatically. "She'll be only too glad to see us there waiting for her."

And so it was agreed by Bert and Stella that as soon as the lack struck they would start for the little railroad station a mile distant.

"But, don't you see, Aunt Nancy? we're just going to meet mamma. If we'd thought to ask her permission she'd have been glad to grant it. I know what I'm talking about, Aunt Nancy." And Stella spoke in a very convincing way.

"Well, maybe you knows, honey-lamb, what you's talkin' 'bout, but old Nance, she knows at the same time what you ails ma done told her to do. An' though old Nance hates to refuse you an' Marce Bert anything in the whole world, still she done must refuse to give her consent to run ails gals' down dar to meet you ails ma tonight."

"All right, Aunt Nancy," laughed Stella. "We'll tell mamma that we went away without your consent, and if she has any fault to find in the matter it will not be with you. And how we're off, Aunt

Stella would be in from the city in half an hour. Then came a few travelers to take the train, and Bert and Stella took up their places on the platform, where the train would stop, to watch for their mother.

To their joy the train came puffing in on time, and eagerly they watched the few passengers alight from the coaches, hoping every second that their mother would step to the platform. But soon the train was slowly moving away, and their mother had not put in her appearance. In their disappointment and apprehension they stood looking after the slowly departing train, their minds not made up as to what they should do. Stella was the first to speak:

"Why, Brother, mamma didn't come!

What do you suppose has happened to keep her in town?"

"Missed the train, I reckon," said Bert, drawing down the corners of his mouth. "Gee, wish we hadn't come, now."

"Well," said Stella, "I guess the only thing for us to do is to get the old hackman to drive us home."

"Yes, that's all we can do," assented Bert. Then he went to look for the hack-driver and came back to inform Stella that the station agent had told him that the hackman had taken some passengers to a farm several miles distant and would not return to his home, which was close to the station, for at least two hours.

"Well, we've got to walk," sighed Stella. "And how dark it is! Light! I wish we'd stayed at home—mamma instructed us to do so." Then Stella fell to blaming Bert, who in turn condemned Stella for consenting so readily to accompany him to the station, declaring that if she had refused to disobey their mother he would not have done so.

"Oh, well, there's no use in our scolding to quarrel about it," declared Stella, almost in tears. "Let us go home as fast as we can. Come along."

Bert, a scowl of displeasure on his otherwise handsome face, agreed that they'd have to go and not waste time fooling about it, so they started off at once toward their own home.

"Say," said Bert, after they were a quarter of a mile had been covered. "If we take the upland road we'll not have to pass through any timber. It's half a mile farther that way, but it's all out under the open sky. And it's not pleasant to be walking through the dark woods at night."

"All right," agreed Stella, shivering at the thought of the strip of woods through which they must pass on that road. "I don't mind the extra half mile. But—Bert, what was that? As sure as I'm alive I felt a rain drop." And Stella stopped, holding out her hand to feel for rain.

"Yep, and so did I," declared Bert. "Yep, and there's another and another. Oh, it's sprinkling fast. Just feel it on your face and hands."

Stella began to cry, holding her hands over her face.

"Don't be a cry-baby," said Bert. "Come along, we can't go the upland road now, for we'd get drenched to the skin. On this road we can take shelter under the trees if it rains very hard."

"And stay out all night!" moaned Stella. "Oh, if only we had obeyed mamma and Aunt Nancy. Oh, it's just good enough for us to be made to suffer for our disobedience, so it is."

"Yep, that's the way with girls," declared Bert, turning his coat collar up to keep the fast-falling raindrops from his neck. "They never care how disobedient they are till they begin getting punished. It's then they begin to see the wall. But come on and don't stop there in the road. It's beginning to rain like sixty. Gee, but we'll get soaked!"

Stella was now weeping from cold and fear, and also from a sense of her wrongdoing. Bert also felt a qualm of conscience, remembering that it was through his argument that Stella had been induced to come with him. He felt a lump in his throat. He also felt the need of a plan to save the two children from the punishment of their mother's wrath. And in another moment they heard their mother's voice saying: "Stop! There they are in the road." Then she called out to them: "Ah, there you are, my disobedient! Come, get into the auto as quickly as you can. No, Bert, don't say one word of excuse to me now. Tomorrow we shall have the reckoning. You are in no condition—neither of you—to talk to night." And their mother wrapped them in a warm auto rug, telling the chauffeur to drive home as quickly as possible.

"Now," she said, turning to her disobedient, "I'll explain how I happened not to come by train tonight. Aunt Grace decided to come and visit us for the week end, and we came from town in her auto. Johnny and Maggie are with us, too, but you shall not see them tonight, for you must pay the penalty of your disobedience. Besides that punishment, I greatly fear you will both be ill from this exposure. And if you are you must realize that you are paying for your own naughty conduct. Now, say nothing to me tonight, but the moment we reach home go to your rooms and get into bed. And I shall give you each a big dose of castor oil."

And as they hurried along in silence, Bert and Stella vowed to themselves that never, no, never, would they be guilty of disobeying their mother in future. Castor oil! Both shuddered at the thought. And, worse still, they must go to bed without having a little visit with Johnny and Maggie, two most congenial little cousins, whom they loved.

Bessie's Party.

A little party Bessie gave
To all the girls and boys;
They came and brought her presents
In the form of pretty toys.

There was a little cat to sit
Beside a tin play grate;
There was a big sea captain, too,
And the sea captain's mate.

There was a tiny tea set, fine,
Of china blue and white;
A doll with lovely yellow curls
And eyes that closed at night.

There was a little Teddy Bear
With fur so soft and brown;
In fact, he was the very best
Small Bruno in the town.

And Bessie very happy was
With all her lovely toys,
And you should just have seen the spread
She gave the girls and boys!

Besides that punishment, I greatly fear you will both be ill from this exposure. And if you are you must realize that you are paying for your own naughty conduct. Now, say nothing to me tonight, but the moment we reach home go to your rooms and get into bed. And I shall give you each a big dose of castor oil."

And as they hurried along in silence, Bert and Stella vowed to themselves that never, no, never, would they be guilty of disobeying their mother in future. Castor oil! Both shuddered at the thought. And, worse still, they must go to bed without having a little visit with Johnny and Maggie, two most congenial little cousins, whom they loved.

THE MAGIC STUMP. BY MAUD WALKER.

A long, long time ago there dwelt in a land beyond the seas an old couple that were childless. They were much disliked in their community for their wickedness and cruelty to children who were employed to work for them were their little grandnephew and grandniece, respectively, 9 and 11. These little kinsfolk were orphans, their parents having died several years before this story opens. As the parents were very poor, and there were no other relatives save the old uncle and aunt, of whom I have just spoken, they were obliged on their deathbeds to leave their little son and daughter to the care of this old couple, who promised the dying parents that they would take the little fatherless and motherless ones to their own home and be kind to them, educating them carefully and loving them as though they were their very own flesh and blood.

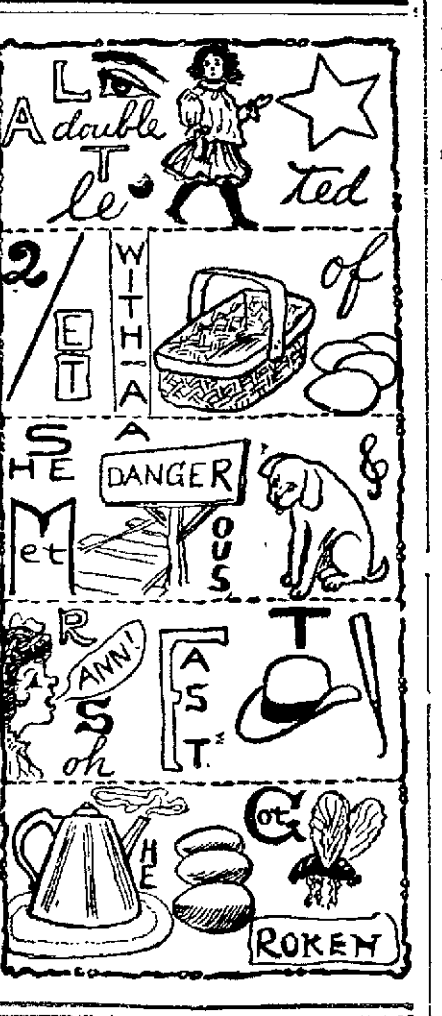

But scarcely had they reached their own home—a fine estate of many hundreds of acres of tilled lands and wild forests—when they put the little grandnephew by name Sena, and the little grandniece by name Sena, out in the fields to destroy the weeds that threatened the grain. All day long, beneath the burning sun, old Henko and Sena worked, hot, soiled, and at night their little backs and arms ached so that they wept silently in their miserable beds, for they had never been made to suffer that way before, and it almost broke their poor hearts to be subjected to such cruelty. Their own parents had been very poor, but at the same time extremely affectionate and considerate of their little ones, doing everything in their power to make them happy.

One morning when Henko and Sena came from their closetlike rooms for breakfast they were told that after that morning they should eat their meals in the back yard with the other servants. This bit of news was not welcome to the children, for while in the presence of their very severe uncle and cross, irritable aunt they could not eat with any relish the spare, coarse meals set before them. And when told that they should in future eat with the servants in the back yard they felt very glad of the prospect of getting away from the formidable company of their old and crabbed kinsfolk, and Henko, forgetful of himself, smiled as he said:

"You orders, Uncle," said Henko, his pale face flushing with the sense of injustice. "We shall go behind the goat-pen tomorrow for our meals, sir."

"Yes, and you'll be sorry enough that you have insulted your foster-parents," declared the old aunt, drinking off a platt of wine to quiet her feelings.

The next morning Henko and Sena went from their rooms to the rear of the little kept goat-pen, finding there in the edge of a deep wood an old stump of enormous circumference. It had doubtless been left there many, many years ago, after the greater part of its giant trunk had been cut away and burned for fire wood. They saw down on the grass beside the stump and awaited their breakfast, which was brought to them by a sad-faced, overworked kitchen menial. She fetched two mugs of water and two bits of stale bread crust. The usual skinned milk and porridge had doubtless been denied them by their angry uncle and aunt.

Thanking the poor kitchen girl for the bread and water, Henko and Sena ate and drank, their hearts very heavy, indeed. How could they work after such a breakfast as a crust and a cup of water? They feared they would fall in the field from sheer exhaustion.

As they sat consoling each other a low voice spoke to them from some nearby thicket, though they could not designate the place, for there was no person visible thereabout.

"Little ones, do not take fright," said the voice. "But if you are shivering and afraid, just press your thumbs against a bit of loose bark that grows on the side of this stump and you'll be fed."

Then the voice was silent, Henko and Sena looking toward the stump with wonder and awe, for the voice had surely come from there.

"The voice said to press our thumbs on a piece of loose bark," whispered Sena. "Shall we do so, Brother?"

"Isn't it wonderful that a voice should come from that aged stump?" asked Henko, still too much mystified to think of food and drink.

"Yes, but not touching the piece of bark," urged the little, hair-starved Sena. "See, there's the loose bit of bark. It merely hangs as though about to fall off. Please, brother, press your thumb on it."

Henko agreed to do so, and to their great amazement the stump opened like a great door as soon as they pressed their thumbs against the bit of loose bark.

"Ah, my little ones, just step down stairs and partake of breakfast. It's all waiting—nice and hot and fresh—for you."

In vain did Henko and Sena look for the owner of the voice. No one was to be seen. They stepped down a flight of stairs, beautifully carpeted. When about 10 feet below the earth's surface they saw a brilliant light gleaming from an open door. Through this door they walked, feeling no fear. They found themselves in a spacious room, filled with sweet-smelling flowers. A round table was spread for two. As Henko and Sena stood looking about them in admiring wonder the voice that had spoken to them from the stump again sounded in their ears.

"Sit down and eat to your satisfaction, my little ones."

Henko and Sena did as told, and had soon finished a most appetizing breakfast; in fact, the finest one they had ever enjoyed. As they were about to rise from the table the voice again addressed them:

"I am an invisible fairy, and I dwell here beneath the stump of an old tree in whose branches dwell my ancestors. And as you have been cut down I could not give up the old spot, so made for myself this little abode beneath my old friend. I can become visible at times, but never by daylight. Only on moonlight nights can I take on the form of a beautiful being, and so become apparent to the human eye. Dwelling here with me beneath this magic stump are ten of the greatest fairies in existence. We have great powers over man, beast and the elements. I have just discovered that you two little ones are orphans and that you are not treated kindly by your old uncle and aunt. They are very wicked people, and we fairies have decided that their lives shall not last much longer. They are a menace to good people. They ill treat their poor servants and those who fall into their power. One of our fairies has gone out to touch a duck which the cooks are preparing for the supper of the old man and woman. The fowl thus touched by her will cause those who eat it to fall ill and their stomachs will refuse food for a fortnight. After that they will be so weak that no amount of nourishment can help them to rally. They will weaken and die, although they will have the dimmest of food about them in abundance."

The voice ceased speaking and Henko and Sena wondered still more at it, knowing now that it came from an invisible fairy.

"Oh, that you might do something for us," said Sena, her voice full of sadness. "If we could get away from our cruel kinsfolk, we'd work without complaint for our daily bread."

"Yes, kind fairy, please help us to get away from our wicked old uncle and aunt," urged Henko, lending his plea to his sister's.

"You shall have all these grand acres, and you will use the work people rightly," said the voice. "Your old kinsfolk will not be here long to rob and beat their working folk and servants. You two little ones are their only heirs, and will soon come into possession of a rich inheritance. After the duck that is now being prepared in the kitchen for the table of your uncle and aunt has been eaten by them, you will see how truly I have spoken."

"But," said Henko, "won't that be wicked to make them so ill that they can't eat, and thus cause their death?" He asked the question of the invisible fairy.

"Ah, no, indeed, my dear little man," assured the voice. "You see, the old couple have been robbing and abusing people too long already. They are robbing you. They are working you to death without rewarding you for your labor. They treat you cruelly. They hate you because you are young and innocent. They wish to starve and work you to death. Is it right to allow them to carry out their wicked scheme of starving and robbing innocent children? No, they must be put out of the way, else they will ruin the lives of every one of their kind. You two little ones are orphans and helpless hirelings. They will feast to-night. After that they may go as hungry as do their poor servants and hired workfolk."

Henko and Sena realized that what the invisible fairy said was true, and they bade her good morning after thanking her for the most enjoyable breakfast.

"We must be off to the fields," said Henko. "Otherwise we should have to remain with you as long as you would care to entertain us."

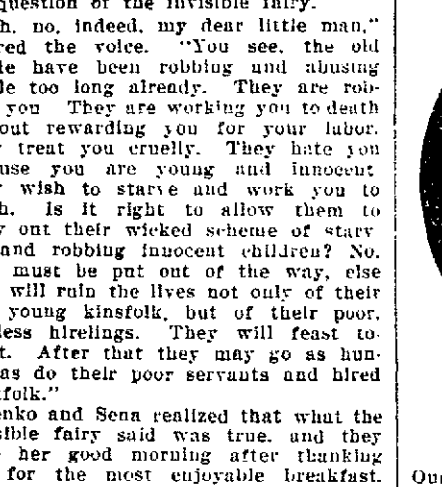

"You'll find the labor in the field very light today," promised the voice. "And you shall have your meals with me till the fortnight has expired. After that you will come into your own—the broad acres of your ancestors. This grand estate is yours by blood right. See to it that you are more just to those who are at your mercy than have been the two who now occupy and enjoy it."

"Ah, good fairy, if we ever come into possession of this dear old estate we shall never abuse our privilege," promised Henko.

"Indeed, we shall take the greatest pleasure in helping the poor," said Sena in a tone full of emotion. "And now farewell till tonight, dear fairy."

That day—and for two whole weeks following—the weeds in the field where Henko and Sena worked slowly came out of the ground of themselves, and the little workers found the labor turned into play. And the old uncle and aunt really turned very ill after feasting too heartily on a fine big duck, and their stomachs refused food ever afterward. And in horrible fits of rage against their lit-the grandnephew and grandniece the old couple—who had lived such wicked lives—passed away of starvation, the very thing they were inflicting upon those helpless ones in their power.

And Henko and Sena came into possession of the fine old estate, setting apart a great part of it for the fairies, and protecting the magic stump as though it had been made of diamonds and pearls. And all was happiness and good cheer on the land, for Henko and Sena grew into most generous man and woman, treating their workers as their equals and loving them as fully as they were loved by all who knew them.

YOUNG ROMANIAN BATHING IN SOUTH FORK OF LICKING LOSTS LIFE.

John Bichia, a Roumanian, aged 17 years, was drowned in the South Fork of the Licking river, while bathing with a number of fellow countrymen Sunday afternoon.

The young man was diving from the bank of the stream when he is believed to have been seized with cramps, becoming helpless. His companions observed him struggling in the water, but were powerless to aid him until he had gone down for the last time.

Bower & McCamant's "White Flyer" ambulance was on the scene in a few minutes and William Rhodes, Clifford Ray and Ed. Wykoff searched the stream for the body, recovering it in about 45 minutes.

The dead man boarded with a family of Roumanians living in the rear of Jackson street in Oklahoma. He is survived by an aged mother and a sister in Roumania. He had been in this country about six months, during which time he had been out of employment.

The funeral will be held Tuesday morning at St. Francis de Sales church, a Roumanian priest from Cleveland officiating.

Dearest son, thou art sleeping in thy quiet grave so low Where thy spirit oft did wander While thou lingered yet below.

Two long years thy flame was shattered By disease's fatal flame No one kneweth what thou suffered But thy end was free from pain.

But the Savior called him higher To a home beyond this sky To sing his praises, ever In a world of endless joy.

Thou hast left the family circle Thou wilt never join us more But we'll cherish the sweet memory In the hallowed days to come.

But we will not mourn thy absence, For we know 'tis thy great gain We shall meet beyond the river Where there is no death or pain.

BROKEN FAITH WITH THE PARTY

It took nearly two columns of the editorial page of Saturday evening's American Tribune to express that paper's opinion of Postmaster Geo. D. Heisey and the delegates to the Coshocton congressional convention.

No ambiguous terms or soft phrases were used. The article started off with big, black lettered headlines: "Broken Faith With Party," and by way of introduction, related some local history which showed how Mr. Heisey had promised to be good. Then becoming more frantic the Tribune used this language:

"It was not believed for one moment that this congressional convention would disregard the wishes of 90 per cent of the Republican voters of the 17th district; that it would endanger their fair chance of defeating Congressman Ashbrook for Congress, or to gratify any personal spite so foolish and vain a thing could be done as to select delegates pledged to Senator Foraker, whose chances and candidacy for the presidency are regarded as farcical by the entire nation and as exemplifying the 'dog in the manger' act by the Republican voters of Ohio.

"But it seems that all's fair in politics: a word broken, a pledge disregarded, a trust betrayed are as nothing. The Licking County delegation was completely under the control of Postmaster Heisey and it did his bidding.

"As an exhibition of spite work and colossal political stupidity this convention is entitled to first prize. No good has been done to Foraker, an injury is attempted against Taft and a serious blow has been struck at harmony and united action within the party ranks. It can only end when those who have betrayed the party are eliminated from control and it is up to the Republican party of Licking county to eliminate them.

Personal spite and personal interests have no legitimate place in the management of the policies of the Republican party, and sooner or later the men who attempt to rule or run will find themselves reared to a restful place where political cares will cease to trouble them.

"The following is a list of the delegates who were present and betrayed:

the Republicans of this county by their endorsement of Foraker:

"L. C. Russell, Fletcher S. Scott, Frank Coine, Dr. D. O. Roberts, J. L. Lewis, W. H. Camp, A. F. Slater, C. C. Fravel, J. T. Osborne, J. G. Frampton."

The Tribune bulletined this editorial in its show window to the exclusion of everything, and this fact was alluded to by one of the Newark delegates who said:

"We're having a little family row and the Tribune seems to be proud of it."

The Tribune claims to be the original Taft paper and naturally the selection of Foraker delegates from this district has caused it great pain.

The President insists that Congress shall make "an honest effort" to do something; and Congress insists that the President shall make an honest effort to mind his own business. But no honest effort will be made for reform by either party except what the Democrats will do.

"We are for Taft because we think that the President wants him," said Frank W. MacLennan, a leading Kansas Republican. Suppose the President wanted Booker T. Washington, would all the Taftites be for Booker?

THEY AREN'T TRAITORS

The American-Tribune in its zeal for Secretary Taft and its hostility to Senator Foraker has taken occasion to denounce a dozen of the most energetic young Republicans in Licking county. The Advocate believes that Mr. Heisey and his associates made a grave political mistake in forcing Foraker national delegates upon the Seventeenth district but it is not in sympathy with the Tribune's suggestion to brand him and such men as Link Russell, Fletcher Scott, C. W. Montgomery, Geo. Hamilton, Dr. Watkins and their associates as traitors. These men are bright, energetic and honest. They should have recognized the Taft sentiment doubtless and turned Foraker's picture to the wall, but they honestly believed it would be a mistake to nominate Secretary Taft and they aren't afraid to say so. Some of them—perhaps all—think Taft can't be elected even if he is nominated.

The American-Tribune should go slowly in denouncing men of this calibre. They are good citizens and while like the rest of us, they make mistakes, they should be given credit for honesty. They are certainly not traitors.

SOME PHILLIPICS ON TAFT AT COSHOCTON.

One of the orators at the Coshocton Republican congressional convention was Hon. James Glenn of that city. In his speech he eulogized Foraker and scored Taft unmercifully. Here are some of his philippics on Many persons have a fashion of postponing the treatment of a bad tooth until forced by excessive pain, to seek a dentist for relief.

Nine times out of ten, the patient has waited too long and what would have been a simple and inexpensive case of filling calls for a crown or artificial tooth costing a great deal more.

Don't neglect your teeth. They need your constant attention and a reliable dentist should be consulted when a cavity is first noticed or the least pain felt. By proper treatment your teeth may be preserved indefinitely and a great deal of expense and useless suffering avoided.

Ours is one of the best equipped dental parlors in the state. We fill teeth and supply crowns, bridgework and artificial teeth that are as near natural as it is possible to make them.

PLEASANTLY SURPRISED

FRIENDS SURPRISE MISS ALICE
CURTISS RESIDING NORTH OF GRANVILLE.

Sigma Chi Entertain Friends at the Chapter House—The girls are entertained from 8 to 11.

Granville, O., May 18.—You can't fix up a town too much for its own good. The more you improve it the more people are going to want to come there to live. The man who made the foregoing statement spoke the truth in mighty chunks. When a stranger comes to Granville with the intention of making arrangements for the education of his children, he always uses his eyes. If he sees the streets in good condition, fine residences, good business houses, nice shady streets and well kept lawns, he naturally concludes that conditions are good, and that its citizens are prosperous, refined and enterprising, and accordingly places his children in the schools.

About twenty of the friends of Miss Alice Curtiss, completely surprised her Saturday evening when they dropped in at her home a short distance north of the village for an evening's enjoyment. The guests went in a body to the home of Miss Curtiss, who answered the knock at the door and was taken completely by surprise when the guests walked in and informed her that they had come to spend the evening, which was most enjoyably spent in cards and music. Refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by her mother, and her cousin, Miss Alice Curtiss, of Bucyrus.

On Saturday afternoon from 2 until 6, the Sigma Chi fraternity entertained their town friends at their chapter house. The house was beautifully decorated with potted plants, wild blossoms and green foliage. Delicious refreshments were served and a most pleasant time was spent by all. In the evening the young ladies were entertained from 8 to 11.

Miss Margaret Chaffee of Kalamazoo is visiting friends in Granville. Albert Akers of Cleveland, Robert Lamson, of Toledo, Margaret Chaffee, Cecil Hill and Harold Lamson took dinner Sunday at the seminary.

The nice weather of the past few days has been the cause of renewed exertions on the part of the farmers, and many have been engaged in turning up the soil and getting ready for corn planting while not a few already have done their planting.

The weather of the past few days has been anything but conducive to good health here and as a result the physicians of the village have been very busy. The days have been warm and damp and as is always the case the people get careless and expose themselves with almost inevitable result that the doctor is summoned. There seems to be no abatement of measles here, and it is reported that there are more cases in the village now than ever.

The farmers of old Granville township are reveling in the present promises of a splendid return for their investment and labor. The rains which have delayed the planting of corn, have helped the grass and grain and the prospects for an abundant harvest are very flattering.

Misses Anna Davis, Ruth Allen and Mary Nichols of Newark were in Granville Sunday the guests of friends.

Mr. and Mrs. O. H. See of Newark, spent Sunday with Granville friends.

At a meeting of the Students' Government association of Shepardson college, the association unanimously voted to accept the walking privilege offered by the faculty. The regulation permits the girls to walk with the young men along any country road from 3:30 to 5:20 p. m. To have charge of this department of the Student government association the following committee was appointed: Irene Conley, chairman; Grace North, Alva Edwards, Elizabeth Ford, Nina Quick, Alma Polk and Olive Jenkins. The president of the association will act as ex-officio member of the committee.

Farmers, mechanics, railroaders, laborers rely on Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. Takes the sting out of cuts, burns or bruises at once. Pain cannot stay where it is used.

ATTENTION COMPANY G.

In pursuance of General Order No. 2, an election for Colonel of the Fourth Regiment, O. N. G., is hereby ordered, to be held at the Armory on Monday evening, May 18, between the hours of 7 and 9 p. m.

All members are ordered to report at the regular drill which will be held on the above night. 16-2

SONG WRITERS CONTEST

Miss Maude Lambert, the prima donna of "Lonesome Town," the musical play that recently completed a long run at the Circle Theatre, New York City, scored such a phenomenal hit with the popular Will R. Anderson ballad, "Just Someone," and the encores were so numerous that there were not enough verses to satisfy the audience. It has therefore been suggested to M. Witmark & Sons, the publishers of the song, to fit her with a third verse.

This is to be used for an encore verse on the play's return to Broadway this summer. Mr. Anderson, the author of the song, is extremely busy at this season of the year, being also the advertising manager of one of the largest firms of chemists in the country he is therefore unable to attend to this work, and the publishers are forced to call on the public at large to supply the demand of Miss Lambert.

Therefore, they are offering through the medium of the Advocate twenty-five ($25) dollars for the best third verse to the song, "Just Someone," and one copy each of any two songs selected from their catalogue of classics, "The Black and White," the next two hundred persons sending in the next best. The winning verse will be placed in "Lonesome Town" at once and full credit given to its author on the programs and other advertising matter.

These verses must be submitted, written over the music of the song, to "Third Verse Jury," 111 West 37th St., New York City. Expiration of time limit to be announced later.

GUNNESS CASE

have been killed in the Guinness house the day after Christmas, 1906.

"I am confident that the woman killed John," said Rendell, "but it is impossible to identify the skeleton sufficiently to warrant in taking it away for burial. John drew $1,100 from the bank in Elbow Lake and wrote me he was going to a place about 60 miles east of Chicago. He did not say that it was Laporte, or that he thought of getting married. Nothing was said about Mrs. Guinness, although John was a subscriber to the Scandinavien, a paper in which Mrs. Guinness's matrimonial advertisements appeared. The evidence that has been obtained from the bank here shows that John was at the Guinness woman's house and disappeared the day after Christmas a year and a half ago."

The scenes of last Sunday at the Guinness farm were repeated yesterday by a somewhat smaller crowd. Probably 10,000 excursionists were here. Pennants bearing the name of Laporte were sold and the "street men" did a thriving business.

Following is a tabulation of the money supposed to have been obtained by Mrs. Guinness:

From Mads Sorenson, her first husband, life insurance.....	$5,000
From Peter Guinness, second husband, life insurance.....	4,000
From Chas. Edman, Newcastle Ind.....	5,000
From Herman Kenitzer, LaSalle avenue Chicago.....	5,000
From fire in Guinness store, Grand avenue and Elizabeth streets, Chicago, insurance.....	3,500
From fire in Guinness house in Austin, Ill., insurance.....	1,500
From Ole O. Buddsburg, Ioka, Wis.....	2,000
From John C. Moe, Elbow Lake, Minn.....	1,500
From Andrew Helgelein, Aberdeen, S. D.....	7,000
From Geo. Berry, this city.....	6,000
From Henry Gehart, Ioka, Wis.....	1,000

From four men, other than the above whose bodies were found in Mrs. Guinness' grave, and estimated at $1,000 each..... 4,000

Springfield, O., May 18.—The Molders from Newark made their first appearance at Snyder field, Sunday afternoon, and they celebrated the occasion by defeating Ransick's Orphans in a poorly played game. The members of both teams fell down on easy chances.

The visitors did more effective work with the stick and won out after the locals had gained an apparently safe lead. In the sixth, when they scored five runs the result of six hits, including a triple and a double, and an error by Murray.

The game was marred by an accident. Pitcher Moore, the giant twirler of the Molders, had the thumb on his left hand broken in the eighth. Totman drove a liner towards him. He threw up his gloved hand and the ball bounded on a fly to Murray. A physician was called and it was found that the bone was broken.

The locals presented Wagner, a southpaw, and he was responsible in a large degree for the loss of the game. He fielded his position poorly and the runs, scored in the second and fifth rounds, are charged against him.

Moore pitched splendid ball for four innings. Not an Orphan saw first in that time. He was bumped hard in the sixth and was lucky in the seventh and eighth. Moeller, the first man up in the seventh, hit but was doubled a moment later on Burt's drive to Wrattan. Bohannon opened the eighth with a triple and was left.

The Molders started the fire works in the second. Murray cracked a safe one to left. Smith bunted and Wagner made a mess of it, giving the batter a life. Wrattan bunted down the third base line and beat it out, the result of slow fielding. Williams fanned. Moore was walked, forcing Murray home. Abbott fled out to Dooan, a hard chance back of second, and Smith counted, after ball was caught. Snyder fled out to Dooan, leaving two on bases.

With two down in the fifth Locke hit one right at Wagner, who made a bad throw, and the batter was safe. Gygil singled, sending Locke to third. Murray grounded to LaRue and Spencer dropped the assist. Locke counted on the error.

The Orphans broke the tie in the fifth. LaRue hit to the center field fence for three bases and doubled when Smith fumbled Totman's grounder.

The balloon went up in the sixth. Moeller tripped and Burt doubled, the former scoring. Burt came home a moment later on Bohannon's smash to center. The latter was caught at second. Spencer was safe on Murray's fumble and Dooan's drive to right sent him to third. LaRue hit, scoring Spencer and Dooan, the latter having stolen second. LaRue stole second and came home on Totman's hit.

Abbott opened the seventh with a hit, was caught off of the sack, but reached second, when Spencer threw the ball away. He counted on Snyder's bingle.

Smith was safe in the eighth on Dooan's bad peg, stole second, and scored on Moore's hit, after Wrattan and Williams had been retired.

The Molders won out in the ninth. Locke hit and was sacrificed. Gygil spanked one to center, scoring Locke. Murray tickled one to left, sending Gygil to third. Smith followed with a blow to left, scoring Gygil and Murray raced to third. He came home on Williams' long fly to center. Score:

Saturday's Game.
(By L. S. Gilvin.)
Before the largest paid attendance for a Saturday game in the Ohio State league, the Cigar-makers defeated Newark in the last game of the series, Saturday.
San Police park presented a holiday appearance with 990 fans and bugs crunched together in grand stand and bleachers. The deal was ideal for baseball, and the infield fast as the Pennsylvania special.
Lima again won the contest in the early innings, but Garvey seemingly did his best to throw it away, until stopped by Captain Kahl who walked the big coal miner to the dressing room after he had ticketed to first.

Two-base hit—Burt. Three-base hit—LaRue. Moeller, Bohannon. Hit by pitched ball—Wrattan, Zimpher. Double plays—Bohannon to Dooan; Wrattan to Murray. First base on errors—Springfield, 3; Newark, 4. Innings pitched—Moore, 8; Panabaker, 1; Wagner, 8; Doyle, 2-3. Base on balls—Off Wagner, 1; off Moore, 1. Struck out—By Wagner, 2; Moore, 4; Panabaker, 2. Time of game—2:10. Umpires—Hart and Kramer.

The visitors did more effective work with the stick and won out after the locals had gained an apparently safe lead. In the sixth, when they scored five runs the result of six hits, including a triple and a double, and an error by Murray.

The game was marred by an accident. Pitcher Moore, the giant twirler of the Molders, had the thumb on his left hand broken in the eighth. Totman drove a liner towards him. He threw up his gloved hand and the ball bounded on a fly to Murray. A physician was called and it was found that the bone was broken.

the third man in the fourth inning. Garvey could not have seen the plate with a field glass, and instead improving grew rapidly worse. Perfect support and luck had aided him until the fourth, when Captain Kahl took a decided hand.

The game opened with Garvey carded for Lima, and Webb, an Ohio Wesleyan student, who played a portion of last season on the slab for the visitors. Webb was a south-paw and looked dangerous, but his gifts were few, though he shows need of more work.

Abbott started the game with a foul pop to C. Reilly. Snyder drove a nasty one to left, but Fink caught it, and Locke hit the atmosphere. The Cigar-makers started business without waiting. After Fink had failed to lift the sphere, dying Webb to Gygil, Newham was struck in the head with one of Webb's wide outs. He fell like a log, but was soon on his feet, and went to second on Smith's error of A. Reilly's ground hit to short. A double steal advanced both runners, and Foutz lifted one to right scoring them. Kahl very nearly sacrificed Foutz to third, and he scored on a passed ball. Sykes failed to get away.

The visitors did nothing in the second though Garvey passed the first man up. Murray was in touch with luck for Reilly gathered in his little attempt at hunting, and Sykes' throw to Kahl nailed Gygil. Smith banded one to right, but was caught in the act of stealing Kahl's bag. Lima went out in order. Lindsay fly being captured by Snyder. Reilly dying second to first, and Garvey short to first.

The visitors started scoring in the third, thanks to Garvey. Wrattan was out on his drive to Reilly; but Winters was ticketed and accepted; then Webb was treated just as kindly. Abbott popped out to Kahl and Garvey passed. Snyder filling the bags. Not a hit, norbing in an earned way, but the bases full. Then Locke, the king of the visitors' ammunition stock, banged out a double to left, and before the smoke cleared all three men scored. Not an earned run in the bunch, and Gygil was regretful, so ended it all at the plate.

The locals evened things in their half. Fink starting it with a clean one to center: Newham went out to Gygil and A. Reilly hit to Snyder's mit. Then Foutz picked out his second one and sent it over short. Fink scoring. Kahl was passed, and Foutz came to third. Sykes' easy one to the center of the diamond was muffed by Gygil and Foutz scored.

Undismayed and fighting like Admiral Bob Evans says he would, the Newark Molders started their half. Murray, the first man up was passed by Garvey; Smith sacrificed him to second Wrattan walked; then Winters drove to left for two bases and Murray scored. Webb hit safely to left, and Wrattan and Winters scored. Abbott was ticketed by Garvey, making a total of seven bases off them in the fourth. Cap called a half, and Quailley was hustled from the dressing room. He had no time to warm up, throwing up a couple to Reilly, and then faced Snyder. He went out to center, two gone. Locke, the star hitter of the team, faced the new man, and two base runners were read o score. Quailley allowed but a little grounder to Kahl and the awful inning was over. Three runs off two hits.

Lima could do nothing in her half, and Quailley only allowed six men to face him in the fifth and sixth all dying on little infield taps.

But in this same fifth the Cigar-makers started high financing and again Fink showed the way by hitting safely to left. Newham sacrificed him to second, and A. Reilly got a safety to center scoring his fellow-gardner. Foutz banded out his third safe hit of the day and Kahl made a neat hunt advancing both men. Sykes hit to right and Abbott dropped it. Fink and Reilly scoring and Kahl going to third. Cap signalled for the "squeeze," but Webb threw wide and Lindsay doing his best could not have reached it with a telephone pole, so the Cap coming on at full speed ran into the ball in Winters' hand. Lindsay then popped to Murray and the inning was over. Sykes dying on third. Three runs and the last.

The visitors made a little rally in the seventh, when Abbott, the first man up, was passed by Quailley Snyder struck out, but Locke sent a screacher to Newham which he just tipped. Abbott taking third. Then Gygil went to the morgue. Kahl to Sykes, and Murray's hit was fumbled by Newham. Abbott scoring. On the next ball hit, the popular short stop more than redeemed himself, for going at a Sweet Marie pace he dashed up Smith's hot one with his gloved hand and retired him at first. It was the prettiest play of the game, and Newham was warmly applauded.

This ended all hopes for the visitors, though things looked cloudy in the eighth, when Quailley was off feed, and passed the first two batters, but the next three died and it was all over. The score:

Lancaster, O., May 18.—The Lanks made it six straight victories by winning over Marion by the score of 3 to 2, Sunday. The game was closely contested, neither side scoring until the sixth. Hill's Good Work.

AYER'S HAIR VIGOR
The team from Benwood arrived in Newark in a special coach. Supper was served at the Idlewild hotel, and several concessions at the park were open among them being the Seangler stand. The teams returned to their homes last night.

POP UPS.
Enmett Curtin of the Manhattan Oil company, Lima, did a little thing at the Newark-Lima game, Saturday, that will long be remembered. He arrived at the grounds about the second inning and saw a crowd of youngsters looking through knot holes. Calling them up he bought tickets for every boy in sight, 15 in all.

Catcher Charles Lusky is booked to join the Marion team at Lancaster today. He will probably do the bulk of the catching for the Diggers.

"Lefty" Webb joined the team at Lima Saturday, simply for the purpose of pitching the game for the Molders. Considering the fact that this is the first game he has pitched this year he did excellent work. He allowed but eight hits, had a hit and a sacrifice to his credit, struck out four men, walked one and hit two.

Moore will probably be out of the game for some time now owing to his injury from Sunday's game. Moore is a hard worker in his position and takes chances in going after liners that few pitchers would care to chance. His accident will be a severe blow to the Molders.

Winning two and losing two isn't a bad record on the trip so far, especially when the condition of the pitching staff is considered. Since Moore has been hurt that leaves only Beeman and Panabaker to work. Baxter, the lad from Monday secured by Joe Locke is still an unknown quantity as he has not yet worked.

"Cotton" Bates, the old local man ager is out of baseball this year. He is working for a telephone company and has a good job.

Newark has jumped from last to fourth place, and this may be a consolation to the fans that had already gotten cold feet. Just remember the season is young yet and that 150 games will have to be played.

"Lefty" Webb has promised to appear at Marion and will twirl one of the games for the locals. Manager Frank Manrath called Joe Locke up over the phone this morning and Joe will pitch one of the Marion games although he won't stay with the team for a while. "Uncle Joe" is the happy father of a child born last Saturday, and he is unable to leave his wife for any length of time for a few days.

Secretary Hopkins wired Manager Berryhill this morning asking him to see Pitcher Andy Kelly and to hustle him on to Newark. Kelly has been in training ever since he left Newark and is said to be pitching nice ball now.

P. D. Q. 'S LOST
A fine game was played at Clay Lick Sunday when Simpson's Pets of that place and the P. D. Q.'s of this city battled for fourteen innings with the score of 5 to 5. The game was finally called on account of rain. Pitcher Camp of the Pets received fine support and did not allow the visitors to score after the second inning. He struck out twenty men of the visiting team. For the P. D. Q.'s Pieri struck out three and Winters four. The batteries were Camp and Claggott; Pieri, Winters and McCarthy.

HAYES' TEAM VICTORS
The Hayes team won from the Rutledge team Sunday. The game was fast and exciting but the Hayes team outbatted the Rutledge boys and their hits were more timely. The hitting and fielding of Reinhold was the feature of the game.

HEAVY SLUGGING WON
The Meridith team of the C. H. league, defeated the East Primary team Sunday morning on the Idlewild grounds by the score of 9 to 5. The game was fast and exciting and was featured by the hard hitting of the Meridith team. Winters and Lake getting home runs. A very fair crowd was present to witness the contest. The batteries were: Meridiths, Lak and Winters; Easts, Drake and Thomas.

When but a youngster, the Newark man left his English home and, with the permission of his parents, became an apprentice seaman. For many years he shipped between the great

It's Impossible

You ask, "Why should I buy Mapl-Flake? Why not cook a wheat food myself?"

Because wheat starch, to be digestible, needs treatment that you can't give it.

Our wheat is cooked for six hours.

Then it is cured for 90 hours.

Then flaked as thin as paper.

Then toasted 30 minutes at 400 degrees.

That is all done to make the starch soluble; to separate the particles so the digestive juices can get to them.

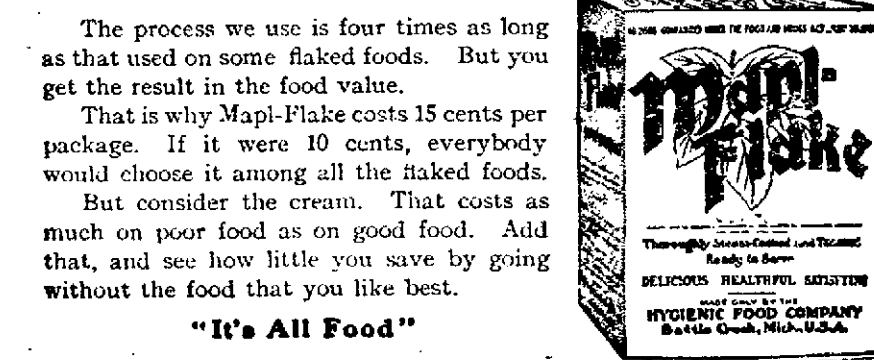

This is not so important when the stomach is strong. But, when the stomach is weak, it is of vital importance.

The question is this: Will you have a food that's all food, a food that will all digest, or shall part be nourishment and part be waste, to ferment and breed germs in the stomach?

There's the question of convenience, too.

Note the time required to even partly cook wheat. Mapl-Flake is ready to serve.

Then the question of flavor—how to make the children prefer the food that is best for them. We cook all our wheat in pure maple syrup, mainly for the children's sake.

America long before. With their address, he shipped again, finally landing on American soil and journeying to Newark by way of the canal.

Mr. Carlisle's father was a plasterer and at that time was engaged in plastering the then new Lansing House, on the North Side. The young man arrived in Newark tired but happy. He started on foot for the home of his parents, east of the city, in what was called "Possum Hollow." While trudging along the road toward where he had been directed, he was passed by an elderly woman and a younger one somewhat resembling her. They drove past him in a buggy without giving him any particular attention.

They were his mother and sister that he had not seen for nearly seven years, and he was passing them in a strange part of a strange country.

After the women had passed, the elder remarked to her daughter that the man's face resembled "Edward." They discussed the subject shortly, then turned and drove rapidly until they overtook the pedestrian. A few questions settled his identity and the sister took the buggy, drove to Newark and brought his father out to the home, and a feast and celebration followed.

The young man then went to work on the plastering of the Lansing House, assisting his father, and he has been in the business in Newark ever since.

His return to England has recalled all of these old scenes to his mind and his letter to his son, just received, is full of interesting memories recalled by his second visit to the land of his birth.

An interesting portion of the letter is that describing the celebration of the first anniversary of the launching of the President Lincoln, which was celebrated with a grand ball on board the vessel in mid-ocean on May 1. Everybody on board participated in the celebration.

NO TRESPASSING

Many trespassers on the levy built for protection of Licking County Children's Home land, the Orville Kiger and Lees farms, east of Newark, have done great damage recently and in consequence of their action 500 feet of the 2200 foot levy were washed out on the last freshet.

By direction of the commissioners of Licking county and the trustees of the Children's Home, I hereby serve notice that, arrests of people trespassing upon this land or in any way interfering with the levy will be made promptly and parties will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law.

MEN'S MEETING

At Taylor Hall Sunday Afternoon was Very Enjoyable Affair—Spent did Addresses.

There was a small but very well pleased attendance at the Men's meeting in Taylor Hall yesterday afternoon. Prof. W. H. Roberts of Denison university made the first address, taking for his subject, "What Expression of the Religious Life Appeals Most Strongly to Men?" The talk was strong, plain and forceful. Taking for his keynote "Sincerity," the Professor showed the true Christian character.

Dr. Rice of New York City spoke upon "Is it Necessary to be a Church Member in Order to be a Christian?" This talk was very forceful and decidedly to the point. His opening remarks were "Is it necessary to travel on a railroad train if you want to go to San Francisco No. You may walk, but the train would be the only sensible way." The Doctor brought forth numerous strong illustrations making the kind of a talk that appeals to the heart.

Mr. Thomas of Denison University sang two solos, "A Clean Heart," and "Hold Thou My Hand." Mr. Thomas was in splendid voice and his "A Clean Heart," brought tears to many eyes. The committee wishes to thank Mr. Thomas for his splendid songs and Miss Keenen for her services as accompanist.

Next Sunday the subject will be "Politics—The Evidence of an Awakened Civic Conscience" by Attorney J. H. Miller of Newark. The Sort of Men Needed in Public Life Today," by Hon. Carmie Thompson, secretary of state. Good music has been secured.

"This looks like a horse on me," remarked the bartender as the fellow who had ordered a pony of brandy went out without paying for it.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS INITIATE LARGE CLASS

Sixty-Two Local and Twenty-Five Candidates From Neighboring Councils are Inducted Into Order

Over 500 Guests Enjoy a Splendid Banquet Served by 100 Handsome Young Ladies—Menu and Toasts.

Newark Council, No. 721 of the Knights of Columbus, initiated its fourth class of candidates in the hall of Roland lodge, Knights of Pythias, this city, Sunday afternoon and evening, conferring the three degrees on a local class of 62 candidates and 25 candidates from neighboring councils. The candidates all assembled at the K. C. club rooms at 9:30 o'clock a.m. and together with visiting Knights from many Councils all over the State, to the number of over 500, marched in procession to the St. Francis de Sales church, where they attended a solemn High Mass, Father O'Boylan being the chief celebrant. It has been a long time since so large a body of men has been seen in any congregation in this city, and the sight was truly edifying.

Father O'Boylan delivered an eloquent address on "Chivalry," ancient and modern, and congratulated the Knights of Columbus on the growth of the order and its close relation to the church of America. After the mass the candidates and Knights had a short recess for lunch, after which the candidates reassembled in the K. C. club rooms, where the members of the various Councils gathered in the commodious hall of Roland Lodge, Knights of Pythias, to complete the details for the conferring of the degrees.

Promptly at 2 o'clock the candidates were ushered into the ante-room for their initiation. Steubenville Council led off with a beautiful execution of the ritual in the conferring of the first degree. After a short recess Columbus Council introduced the candidates into the mysteries and lessons of the second degree.

There was another short recess on account of the extreme heat in the hall, during which the candidates and the working teams enjoyed the rest and gathered inspiration for the climax of the third degree, which was put on by State Deputy McCarty of Toledo, assisted by a very efficient team of a dozen or more third and fourth degree Knights of Columbus.

State Deputy Gavin of Toronto, O., was to have put on this degree, but owing to the serious illness in the families of some of his assistants, his services could not be secured, and District Deputy McCarthy and his team of Toledo and other Councils of the State were substituted.

It is the unanimous expression of the local and visiting Knights that the work was never better done in Newark, and special credit is due District Deputy McCarty and his team, because of his shortness of time for preparation for this work.

After the initiation there was a grand review of the various lessons in the several degrees, after which District Deputy Koos of Columbus Council, explained the various signs and symbols of the secrecy of the order, and knighted each and every candidate on his knees.

The Knights then adjourned to the banquet hall in the Armory, on East Main street, where an elaborate feast, prepared by J. S. Kuster, was served.

Mr. Kuster was assisted by 100 of the young ladies of this city. The hall and the tables, with the large number of beautiful lady waiters in their garments of the holiday presented a picture that baffles description. The decorations consisted of an abundance of flags of the United States and the Papal colors, bunting and flowers in profusion. So well arranged was the hall that the entire gathering of over 500 were seated without confusion or crowding and the wants of the inner man were promptly satisfied. The menu was as follows:

Olives Pickles Radishes
Roast young turkey—French dressing
Cranberry Jelly
Creamed potatoes
French peas in timbals
Armour's Star boiled ham
Vealed tongue
K. of C. punch Vegetable salad
Butter rolls Fruits
Neapolitan ice cream
Assorted cake
Cigars

At the close of the feast the following program of toasts was responded to, Mr. John P. Sullivan of Newark Council acting as toastmaster:

"The Ladies"—Wm. M. Mumm, Columbus Council.
"God Bless 'Em."
"Christopher Columbus"—Rev. B. M. O'Boylan, Newark Council.
"Our Order"—Hon. Jos. McDowell, Coshocton Council.
"Before and After Taking"—Rev. Chas. W. Waterson, Newark Council.
"An Ideal K. C."—Hon. Maurice H. Donahue, McGahan Council, New Lexington, O.
"The Laity"—Dr. Charles A. Wingerter, Wheeling Council.
"Knighthood Yet in Flower"—Hon. John A. O'Dwyer, Toledo Council.

The affair was the largest gathering of the kind ever held in Newark, and at 10 o'clock Sunday night the meeting was adjourned and the visiting Knights left in every direction by steam and electric cars for their respective homes. Never before did Newark citizens and Newark Knights receive such compliments as were showered on all sides by the visiting Knights.

THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN AMUSING AND CONVINCING

Talk No. 13 to Newark Business Men. (By Herbert Kaufman.)

An advertiser must realize that there is a vast difference between AMUSING people and CONVINCING them. It does not pay to be "smart" at the line rate of the average first class daily. I suppose that I could draw the attention of everybody on the street by painting half of my face red and donning a suit of motley. I might have a sincere purpose in wishing TO ATTRACT the crowd but I would be deluding myself if I mistook the nature of their attention.

The new advertiser is especially prone to misjudge between amusing and convincing copy. A humorous picture MAY catch the eyes of EVERY reader, but it won't pay as well an illustration of SOME PIECE OF MERCHANDISE which will strike the eye of every BUYER. Merchants secure varying results from the same advertising space. The publisher delivers to each THE SAME QUALITY OF READERS, but the advertiser who plants FLIPPANCY in the minds of the community won't attain the benefit that is secured by the merchant who imprints CLINCHING arguments there.

Always remember that the advertising sections of newspapers are no different than farming lands. And it is preposterous to hold the publisher responsible for the outcome of unintelligent copy as it would be unjust to blame the soil for bad seed and poor culture. EVERY ADVERTISER GETS EXACTLY THE SAME NUMBER OF READERS FROM A PUBLISHER AND THE SAME READERS—after that it's up to him—the results fluctuate in accordance with the intelligence and the pulling power of the COPY which is inserted.

FOUND DEAD

WILLIS DAY, RESIDENT OF WEST NEWARK, SUCCEEDS TO ATTACK OF HEART FAILURE.

Found on Back Porch of His Room in Rear of Star Bakery, Early on Sunday Morning.

Mr. Willis Day, a coal dealer whose place of business is in West Newark, was found dead on a porch of his rooms in the rear of the Star bakery building on West Main street, Sunday morning, early, and is believed to have died with an attack of heart disease.

The body was discovered by Wm. Wiley, a baker employed at the Star bakery, and whose home is at 64 Harrison street. Mr. Wiley passed the porch first at 3 o'clock Sunday morning, while engaged in his duties at the bakery. He observed some dark object on the porch, but believing it to be a dog, passed on. About 5 o'clock he again passed and saw that the body was that of a man, but thought it was probably some drunken person.

An hour later he went out to the porch and there discovered the body of Mr. Day. A call was at once sent in for Criss Bros. & Jones' ambulance which responded immediately. On arriving at the scene, Dr. S. Criss pronounced the man dead and hurriedly summoned Deputy Coroner W. E. Wylarch, who ordered the body removed to the Criss Bros. & Jones morgue on South Third street.

When the body was discovered it was found that the man had bled profusely from the mouth and nose. The shoes had been removed but otherwise the clothing was undisturbed.

George Ritter, who works at the Coehlin planing mill, and whose rooms adjoin those of the dead man, stated Sunday that he met Mr. Day walking toward his home Saturday night about 9:30, and that he appeared to be in his usual health and remarked that he was going home. Mr. Ritter said that about 1 o'clock he observed a light in the man's rooms. The light was still burning when the ambulance arrived on the scene Sunday morning.

The body was found on its face with the head against the screen door while the door of the room, leading onto the porch, was ajar. Relatives of the deceased claim that his sudden death was not much of a surprise to them as the man has been subject to heart attacks. It is believed that he became ill about midnight, partly dressed and started out on the porch for air, when he fainted and expired.

Mr. Day was an uncle of Attorney J. C. Marriott. He was aged about 60 years. A son, ALVIN DAY, residing near Johnstown, and a daughter, Flora, living at Flora, Ill., survive. There remains also one brother, Samuel Day, whose home is in Kansas.

The body will be taken from the morgue to the Rocky Fork church on Tuesday, where the funeral will be held at 10 a. m. Interment being made in the Soudin cemetery.

The deceased had resided in Newark for about 12 years, during which time he had been engaged in the coal business in West Newark. He came to this city from Eden township, where he lived for a number of years.

Mr. Day has always been a hard-working and industrious citizen; he was quiet and reserved in his disposition, yet one who had a host of friends because of his honesty and integrity of purpose. He leaves besides two children, eight grand children and a host of distant relatives and friends to mourn his loss.

The funeral services will be held at the Rocky Fork church at 10 o'clock a. m. Tuesday, and interment will be made in the Soudin cemetery, a few miles north of the church.

DECLARATION OF PRINCIPLES ADOPTED BY GOVERNORS

The full text of the declaration of principles as adopted at the conference of governors at Washington is as follows:

"We, the governors of the states and territories of the United States of America in conference assembled, do hereby declare that the great prosperity of our country rests upon the abundant resources of the land chosen by our forefathers for their homes and where they laid the foundation of this great nation.

"We look upon these resources as a heritage to be made use of in establishing and promoting the comfort, prosperity and happiness of the American people, but not to be wasted, deteriorated or needlessly destroyed.

"We agree that our country's future is involved in this; that the great natural resources supply the material basis upon which our civilization must continue to depend, and upon which the perpetuity of the nation rests.

"We agree, in the light of facts brought to our knowledge and from information received from sources which we cannot doubt, that this material basis is threatened with exhaustion. Even as each succeeding generation from the birth of the nation has performed its part in promoting the progress and development of the republic, so do we in this generation recognize it as a high duty to perform our part, and this duty in large degree is in the adoption of measures for the conservation of the natural wealth of the country.

"We declare our firm conviction that this conservation of our natural resources is a subject of transcendent importance, which should engage unflinchingly the attention of the nation, the state and the people in earnest co-operation. These natural resources include the land on which we live and which yields our food; the living waters which fertilize the soil, supply power and form great avenues of commerce; the forests which yield the materials for our home, prevent erosion of the soil, and conserve the navigation and other uses of our streams; and the minerals, which form the basis of our industrial life, and supply us with heat, light and power.

"We agree that the land should be so used that erosion and soil wash should be prevented; that there should be reclamation of arid and semi-arid regions by means of irrigation, and of swamps and overflowed regions by means of drainage; that the waters should be so conserved and used as to promote navigation to enable the arid regions to be reclaimed by irrigation; that the people, the forests, which regulate our rivers, support our industries and promote the fertility and productivity of the soil, should be preserved and perpetuated; that the minerals found so abundantly beneath the surface should be so used as to prolong their utility; that the beauty, healthfulness and habitability of our country should be preserved and increased; that the sources of national wealth exist for the benefit of all the people, and that the monopoly thereof should not be tolerated.

"We commend the wisdom of the President in sounding the note of warning as to the waste and exhaustion of the national resources of the country, and signify our appreciation of his action in calling this conference to consider the same, and to seek the remedies therefor through co-operation of the nation and the states.

"We agree that this co-operation should find expression in suitable action by the Congress within the limits of and co-extensive with the national jurisdiction of the subject, and complementary thereto by the legislatures of the several states within the limits and co-extensive with their jurisdiction.

"We declare the conviction that in the use of the national resources our independent states are interdependent and bound together by ties of mutual benefits, responsibilities and duties.

"We agree in the wisdom of future conferences between the President, members of Congress and the governors of the states regarding the conservation of our natural resources with the view of continued operation and action on the lines suggested, and to this end we advise that from time to time, as in his judgment may seem wise, the President call the governors and others into conference.

"We agree that further action is advisable to ascertain the present condition of our national resources and to promote the conservation of the same. And that we recommend the appointment by each state of a commission on the conservation of natural resources, to co-operate with each other and with any similar committee on behalf of the federal government.

"We urge that continuation and extension of forest policies adopted to secure the husbanding and renewal of our diminishing timber supply, the prevention of soil erosion and the protection of headwaters and the maintenance of the purity and navigability of our streams. We recognize that the private ownership of forest land entails responsibilities in the interests of all the people, and we favor the enactment of laws looking to the protection and replacement of privately owned forests.

"We recognize in our waters a most valuable asset of the people of the United States, and we recommend the enactment of laws looking to the conservation, to the end that navigable and source streams may be brought under complete control and put to the best possible use. We especially urge on the Federal Congress the immediate adoption of a wise, active and thorough waterway policy, providing for the prompt improvement of our streams and conservation of their watersheds required for the uses of commerce and the protection of the interests of our people.

"We recommend the enactment of laws looking to the prevention of waste in the mining and extraction of coal, oil, gas and other minerals, with a view to their wise conservation for the use of the people and to the protection of human life in the mines. Let us conserve the foundations of our prosperity."

Grist in Police Court This Morning—Twenty-Seven Cases Disposed of by Mayor.

From Saturday noon until midnight Saturday, the police were kept on the hop, and in police court this morning 27 prisoners faced the mayor. Sunday was rather quiet in the police business and the patrol was not out of the patrol house Sunday night.

Twenty-three of the cases were plain drunks that came from surrounding towns to help the local "bisters" kick up the suds and booze. The benches in the court house park were mighty popular and Officers Carroll and Callan picked up many drunks from them. The arresting officers were Capt. Bell, Patrolmen Callan, Carroll, Brooke, McClure, Moore, McCrum, Swank, Brown, Hagar, Sutton, Linke, McConnell, Donley and Liming.

Jack Boyle who called at the Emerson home Saturday, and became insulting when refused something to eat, was given $5 and costs.

Heis Von Capava, he of the wonderful name, stated by Officer Linke as an African, was picked up very drunk in a South Second street doorway. Linke made a mistake in the skating for Heis says he is a real Jananican and no relation to Heis Von Sagan. He couldn't pay his bill and was committed.

John Kilmour and Harry Lindsey, charged by R. C. Bigbee with stealing his Isinglass auto curtain, were given 30 days each. The men after getting the curtain cut a few small holes in it and sold it for 25 cents.

T. D. Speck of Washington, Pa., and Frank Grass of Fredericktown, were arrested by Detective Roberts for train riding. They were given the usual fine.

run by a foreigner. The father is illegitimate, was picked up by Captain Bell and Officer Liming very drunk. He told the officers that he and another boy bought their drinks at a saloon run by a foreigner. The father is investigating and prosecutions may follow.

Chief Zergiebel has received a letter from Dr. Emory Lanphear, 3870 Delmar building, St. Louis, asking for reports of the "red light" district in Newark. Dr. Lanphear is writing an essay for the American Journal of Clinical Medicine on "The Social Evil of American Cities."

Photos and complete descriptions have been received from the reformatory, of Albert Beckwith and Chester Durham, two convicts who escaped from the institution Saturday. Beckwith was sent up from Lucas county for larceny in February, 1906, and the reward is $50. Durham was up for assault with intent to rob, and was received in October last year. A reward of $50 is also offered for his arrest.

Mrs. Clara Knoff living near Centerville, has written to Chief Zergiebel asking that her son be arrested if found here and she sent a very complete description of him. Harry Clinton Knoff left home last Saturday with a woman with "very red cheeks and lips and a wealth of beautiful brown hair." The woman is said to be Miss Van Winkle, formerly a resident of this city. The chief got busy and found the woman had returned to her home and baby in the village of Centerville, Knox county. Harry, without his affinity, may be picked up here, or maybe he has gone back home. Harry is big and 30 years old.

Anti-Christ Lectures Said to Have Caused Controversy Over Former Granville Man.

The story published some days ago giving an interview with an instructor at the University of Cincinnati, in which he declared that the real reason for the deposition of Prof. Henry Heath Bawden was on account of his radical views on Christianity, has received corroboration from a number of Prof. Bawden's students.

Just before the controversy between Bawden and Dabney became public, it is said, one of Bawden's girl students approached a group of her classmates on the university campus and exclaimed, "I'm sick and tired of these anti-Christ lectures! They should be prohibited here!" Some one suggested that she bring the matter before Dr. Dabney, and she declared that if she had some one to go with her she would. One of the male students volunteered, and together they took the matter before Dr. Dabney, who, it is said, expressed surprise and some indignation at Bawden's course. It was a day or two following this that he called Mrs. Bawden into conference, and following that he had a stormy interview with Dr. Bawden himself. Then followed his ultimatum, based ostensibly, at least, upon Dr. Bawden's radical but unexpressed views on sex and marriage. Dr. Dabney would not commit himself as to the truth of the above story.

Mrs. Bawden did not leave Cincinnati Saturday as she had originally intended. She postponed leaving until some time this week. She declared yesterday that she would never return to Cincinnati.

AUTOMOBILE

Wrecks Buggy and Knocks Boy Unconscious During Mix-up Saturday Afternoon.

What might have been a serious automobile accident occurred on North Third street Saturday afternoon, and as a result a young boy named Danforth, living on South First street, was knocked unconscious and slightly bruised about the body, and the horse and rig of Mr. J. H. Smith, travelling passenger agent for the Panhandle railroad was badly damaged.

The machine, a big red touring car, was being driven by Duane Fulton, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Fulton, and in turning off Third street the young man turned the car to avoid a rig. Too late he saw young Danforth, and the machine hit him. Fulton gave the steering wheel a whirl to avoid running over the boy and the machine crashed into the Smith rig.

The horse was thrown to the street and one of its legs was cut, the left shaft broken, the fender torn off, and several spokes were mashed in the wheels. The accident occurred almost in front of the Doty house and was witnessed by a large number of people. An officer told Fulton to report to the mayor this morning, but as no one appeared against him and as he was not exceeding the speed limit and the accident was unavoidable, he was dismissed.

Mrs. E. W. Swisher of East Gay street, will return next week from Newark, O. She has been a patient of Dr. Stimson's at the city hospital, and is rapidly recovering from the effects of a very serious operation on her right arm.—Columbus Dispatch.
